The Pastor Speaks

"AMAZING GRACE"

Some time ago, Judy Collins made an old hymn popular, "Amazing Grace." Grace, as we have said, is a gift from God to man. Grace is God's loving favor and kindness towards those who do not deserve favor but judgment and condemnation. It is God's grace that links us to Him. Whether or not we respond to Him - we are already linked to Him because of Grace. Grace is free. Grace is sovereign, grace is amazing.

Grace has only one channel. There is only "one way" as many Christian youth say. The only way that grace comes to the human race is JESUS CHRIST. "The law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ." (John 1:17). Apart from Jesus, God offers grace to no one in any situation. Jesus is the way, the truth and the life.

Grace is offered only to one kind of person - the humble person. The Bible teaches in at least three places that "God resists the proud, but gives grace to the humble." The only person who can receive the grace of God is the humble. If we think we earn grace, grace can't be received. The hymnwriter said, "Nothing in my hand I bring, simply to Thy cross I cling."

The only way you and I can have grace in our lives and experience is by faith. "By grace you are saved by or through faith and not of yourselves, it is the gift of God." (Ephesians 2:8) even faith is God's gift to us in Christ. God offers His grace in Christ through faith. A trustful acceptance, a trust resulting in commitment of life - the result of which is a new relationship with God, with others, and with self.

Finally, there is only one administrator or dispenser of the grace of God, and that is the person of the Holy Spirit. The late Dr. Samuel M. Shoemaker, an Episcopal Rector, said "The Holy Spirit is the bringer of that grace which flows from the love of God through the Cross of Christ." In Hebrews 10:29, the Holy Spirit, our Helper and Comforter, is called "the Spirit of grace." And He, the Spirit, administers grace and everything else we receive through Jesus Christ. Grace is amazing - something unexpected which comes as a gift; unmerited which we do not deserve but which, through faith, is received; unlimited, for all men at all times through the administrator - the Holy Spirit. God's grace is sufficient for all our needs, past, present, and future.

Comment on the International Sunday School lesson for Sunday, September 30, 1973.

Topic: Good News for Sinners

Scripture: Romans 1:1-2:16

I am not ashamed of the gospel: it is the power of God for salvation for every one who has faith. Romans 1:16.

The word gospel is of Anglo-Saxon derivation, from words meaning either "God's news" or "good news." Since the Greek word in the New Testament which is translated "gospel," and from which evangelistic and evangelical are derived, means "good news," this is the meaning usually given to the word. But the two possible root meanings of its Anglo-Saxon origins and the significance of the term as it is used in the New Testament suggest that the word might well be defined as "good news from God."

For the gospel is "good news from God," in comparison with good news from other sources, showing people how they may be redeemed from sin and reconciled to God. Only God can authoritatively give such good news, but He does use people who have experienced redemption and reconciliation to carry His good news and to deliver it to others.

One would assume that good news from God would be welcomed upon hearing it. But the good news from God is promised upon a condition people do not like to think themselves in, the condition of sin. Even when sin is defined as alienation from God, the obstacle arises in the refusal of some to regard themselves as alienated from God and in the opinion that it is not necessary to be reconciled to God.

Paul dealt with these problems in his letter to the Christians at Rome. In the Scriptural background for this week's International Sunday School lesson, he shows how man strayed from his Creator, despite the evidence in the creation, substituting his own ideas for the divine revelation and making idols-people "exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images resembling mortal man or birds or animals or reptiles." These were the substitutes for God with which the ancient world was familiar. Modern man makes other substitutes.

Making substitutes for God demonstrates vividly alienation from God. It is evidence of spiritual blindness that one does not recognize this alienation and its destructive consequences. No greater tragedy can befall a person than the situation Paul described when he wrote, "God gave them up in the lusts of their hearts to impurity, to the dishonoring of their bodies (remember here Paul's concept of the body as the temple of the Holy Spirit) among themselves, because they exchanged the truth about God for a lie and worshipped and served the creature rather than the Creator..."

For all his stature as a theologian and a missionary, none has recognized more sincerely and clearly than Paul that the natural state of the human being is sinful. It influenced all his preaching and writing. Later theologians who have found the ground for their systems in Paul's work, as Martin Luther and Karl Barth all from their study of Romans, recognize this state of humanity and that it separates man from God.

As one charged with carrying good news from God to most of the principal centers of population in his day, Paul premised his message on human alienation from God and man's need of reconciliation. As he developed the structure of his message, he showed how people could be reconciled to God through Jesus Christ. This was the gospel he preached, of which he was not, in understatement for a believer but in contrast to the unbeliever, ashamed. For in one of those strange quirks of human personality, man, who should be ashamed of his sin, in his self-pride is not but makes himself ashamed of what should be a source of proper but unselfish pride, that God has opened for him a way of redemption from destructive sin and of reconciliation with God which provides full and abundant life.
